The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

IT WOULD BE INTERESTING to know what inspires the odd conclusion that Stalin of Moscow, in recognizing the government under King Emanuele, has jettisoned the Italian communist party which demands the monarch's abdication.

There's nothing to support any such notion, so far as I can see. Stalin merely has signified that he thinks the Badoglio government under the king is better left to act for the time being. The communist chief has in no way committed himself beyond the present emergency by recognition.

The marshal did agree at the Moscow conference of the big four—America, Britain, Russia and China—that Fascism should be destroyed and that the Italian people should be allowed to choose their own democratic form of government. However, it seems absurd to believe he deviates so far from ordinary human nature that he wouldn't be happy to see a communist government in Italy ultimately—or in any other country, for that matter. He's not going to strifle his own followers and doctrines.

So probably little Emanuele finds his throne an uneasy seat, despite the working agreement with America and Britain, and outright recognition of diplomatic relations with Moscow. And he's not the only king with troubles, for the four kingdoms of the neighboring Balkan peninsula—Greece, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Rumania—are shaking to their very foundations.

Take the case of King George of Greece, who is a refugee in Cairo. The political trend among his people now is to kick him out once more and reestablish the republic. When they called him back in 1935 he had a chance to rebuild the glories of his throne, but he soon allowed the late General Metaxas to set up a dictatorship and take over the government.

NOW, THE GREEKS throughout history have hated dictators, but they would have forgotten George if he had disavowed the dictatorship when Metaxas died in 1941, and had taken over the active leadership of his people. All he had to do was mount a white charger and ride through Athens with a sword at his side and he would have been the hero of the public.

But George didn't. He never has been a forceful personality. His mother-in-law, the late Queen

Lillie Mae Hartley

Dayton Girl Is Freed In Murder Case

(By Associated Press)

DAYTON, March 18.—Mrs. Lillie Mae Hartley was ready to accompany her soldier husband today following her acquittal of second degree murder charges which grew out of the fatal shooting of Corp. Jack Nathanson in her apartment last Dec. 29.

Weeping softly as the jury of three men and nine women filed into the courtroom last night after deliberating four-and-a-half hours, the attractive 21-year-old defendant burst into tears mingled with laughter when the verdict was read.

"I want to get out of here," she cried. "I'm going to go down to Camp Gruber (Okla.) and stay with my husband until he goes over."

Mrs. Hartley's second husband, Harry, on a special furlough and at her side during the 15-day trial, was not in the courtroom when the verdict was read.

The prosecution claimed Mrs. Hartley shot and killed Nathanson, 2, attached to Wright field and who was a former New York newspaperman, during a quarrel.

Mrs. Hartley testified she fired in self-defense as Nathanson made improper advances.

An unexpected event in the latter part of the trial occurred when a soldier, who identified himself as Pvt. Duard Bradshaw, stationed at the Army air base at Greensboro, N. C., testified he married Mrs. Hartley last November.

WOODWORKING CLASS SPONSORS EXHIBITS

Members of Jesse Hagedorn's wood industries classes at the High school have arranged a series of exhibits in the Morgan-Myers hardware store window to illustrate their work.

In this week's exhibit are projects completed by Walter Kastenhuber, Walter Krauss, Lloyd Harroff, Ray Gorbey, George Lantz, and other students whose work will be shown in succeeding weeks.

Richard Mossey, Leonard Lance, Charles Dunlap and Charles Myers. The Hi-Tri girls' service club has arranged a roller skating party at 8 p. m. Monday at the skating rink on W. State st. The affair, planned as a benefit to raise funds for student projects, is open to all High school students.

Salem High school debaters held a practice session with the Youngstown East High school speakers here recently and next week will hold another practice debate with the Niles school squad.

The Quaker debaters are Harvey Walken, Sally Joy, Joseph Kupka, Margaret Johnson, Duane Yeagley and Marjorie Zeller.

Wounded In Marshals

EAST LIVERPOOL, March 18.—Marine Corp. William R. Plantz, 23, was wounded in the Marshall Island invasion and is now in a naval hospital at Pearl Harbor, his wife, Mrs. Virginia Plantz, was informed today.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. William Plantz, he was a steel worker before he enlisted Oct. 5, 1942.

Jap Bismarck Sea Defenses Crumble

(By Associated Press)

Japanese positions rimming the Bismarck sea apparently are nearing collapse under trip-hammer Allied blows.

At the north entrance to the Southwest Pacific sea, Americans captured Lorengau airdrome on Manus island in the Admiralty group. Allied headquarters said today, and were last reported within 600 yards of Lorengau township, largest village in the Admiralties.

On the southwest rim, the key Japanese supply and air base of Wewak, New Guinea, shuddered under a 143-ton bombing that raised to 899 tons the explosive weight poured into enemy positions in six days. The Japanese indicated their plight when they failed to get any fighter interceptors off the ground. Already, the enemy has lost at least 65 planes trying to blunt the air blow.

On the east rim, Rabaul, New Britain, whose neutralization by air attack set the pattern for the Wewak assaults, was pounded anew with a 135-ton blast.

Today's communiqué reported complete break down of the enemy's offensive against the 37th and American divisions holding the beachhead perimeter at Empress Augusta bay, Bougainville, in the Solomons. For more than a week, out-flanked enemy troops, some of them veterans of the unforgettable rape of Nanking, have stormed American positions in suicidal attempts to gain high points commanding the Allied beachhead.

Fighting has been described officially as some of the war's heaviest.

WOMAN KILLED IN HOME BLAZE

Mrs. James A. Grier, 27, of Greenford, Is Burned In Kerosene Fire

Mrs. Marian Adela Grier, 27, wife of James A. Grier, died early this morning at the Salem City hospital of burns received yesterday afternoon while attempting to kindle a fire with kerosene at her home one mile west of Greenford.

The resulting fire which completely destroyed the four-room frame house, located on the Wetzel farm, was discovered by Carl Clay of Greenford, who notified the Greenford fire department and several state highway workers nearby who were unable to get the blaze under control.

Two children at home at the time escaped unhurt. Three others were in school.

Mrs. Grier who suffered second and third degree burns about the neck, chest, arms and legs, died at 2:50 a. m. today in City hospital. Mr. Grier is employed at the Lincoln Machine shop in Salem.

The daughter of William and Alice Wetzel, she was born in Oil City, Pa., April 7, 1917, and had lived in Greenford for the past seven years, moving there from Canfield. She was married to James A. Grier of Canfield, Dec. 28, 1932. She was a member of the Methodist church in Canfield.

Besides her husband she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wetzel of Salem; five children, Mary Alice, Katherine Irene, James William, Winifred Louise and Robert Wayne, all at home; one brother, Wayne B. Cuyahoga Falls and one sister, Mrs. Ralph A. Ditoro of Youngstown.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Williams funeral home in Canfield in charge of Rev. George A. Gibson. Burial will be in Greenford cemetery.

Friends may call Sunday evening at the funeral home.

Boy Is Acquitted In Death of Girl

(By Associated Press)

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 18.—Good-looking young David Pilgas resumed the life of any boy of 16 today after five tense days before a circuit court jury trying him for murder in the petting party death of a girl friend.

A verdict of acquittal, delivered by the jury late yesterday, was the accompaniment of cheers from both adults and juveniles, sent Pilgas back to his household in Greenville freed of the shadow of a prison sentence.

The defendant had been accused by the state of murdering attractive Patricia Winters, 17, his "dance date" last Dec. 10.

Pilgas has steadfastly maintained he recollected nothing after an explosion in the parked automobile occupied by himself and Miss Winters. Her charred body was found in the burned car, and the state charged that Pilgas beat her unconscious when she resisted his advances and then set fire to the car.

Defense Counsel Jay W. Linsey argued a gasoline leak might have caused the explosion and that Pilgas escaped "by a miracle."

Ohio Fliers Injured

DENISON, Texas, March 18.—Aviation Cadet Vernon L. Curtis of Mechanicsburg, O., and Lieut. Robert C. Grummel, 27, of Crestline, O., a flying instructor, were injured yesterday in a crash of two training planes at Perrin field. A flying cadet and an instructor lost their lives in the incident.

Litter of 27 Pigs

Red Army Smashes Toward Pre-War Rumanian Border

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, March 18.—Marshal Ivan S. Konev's cavalry hordes, infantry and tanks today poured into the deep valley of the Dniester, fighting their way through flooded streams and clinging mud toward Bessarabia—already within sight.

In one sector, Russian units, pushing on from captured Tomashpol, drove to within 12 miles of a good highway which extends northward from Mogilev Podolski, ancient border town.

Turkish dispatches reported a headlong flight of civilians from the pre-war Rumanian border.

Meanwhile, Russian forces have rolled to within 70 miles of straits.

Production officials had hoped to keep some 40,000 to 50,000 key technicians but Mr. Roosevelt said yesterday few men under 26 are really indispensable and the armed services view is that that is too great a percentage of deferment to maintain the needed combat force.

Nearly 1,000 U.S. Bombers Hit Germany

BULLETIN

LONDON, March 18.—U. S. heavy bombers, perhaps 750 to 1,000 strong, smashed at aircraft plants, airfields, and other war targets in southern Germany today, strategic air force headquarters announced, boring through German fighter opposition apparently in another great battle of the skies.

LONDON, March 18.—Hundreds of American and British planes were thrown against the continent in an aerial offensive renewed with force today, and Berlin broadcasts said strong American bomber formations were roaring over southwestern Germany at noon.

The daylight forays followed night blows by RAF Mosquitos against unnamed targets in western Germany.

The Berlin broadcast said the American bombers were escorted by fighters and were engaged in violent battles by strong forces of the German air defense.

Running air battles continued across France and into Germany, the broadcast said.

An air raid alert was sounded in Basle, Switzerland, as the American heavy bombers droned on eastward.

The procession of daylight attackers was joined by fighter planes, streaking out in force toward Boulogne on the bombers' flank.

Today's bomber and fighter forays followed up far-flung blows yesterday in which Italy-based American heavy bombers loosed heavy explosives on Vienna, in old Austria, and Britain-based Allied planes resumed the attacks against communications in France and Holland.

Claim 22 Bombers Downed The German-controlled Vichy radio claimed 22 bombers and 12 fighters were lost in the Vienna attack, adding "many planes were believed to have crashed in snowdrifts over the Alps."

U. S. 5, specifies the number of planes falling to return, but Allied headquarters at Naples said 11 planes were lost in operations of the American air force yesterday.

The Paris radio said 25 persons were killed and 30 wounded in a "British-American" attack yesterday on Oise. It referred apparently to the American Marauder blow shipping to the railway center of Creil, 30 miles north of Paris.

Last night's Mosquito forays were the 13th of the month for the all-wooden bombers, and they made the assaults without loss.

The assault on Vienna, second city in greater Germany and site of many ministries driven from devastated Berlin, was the climax of extensive daylight raids from Italy during which Fortresses also struck at Belleberg in Austria and bombed shipping in the Yugoslav port of Sibbenik. Mosquitos were not in the assault on Vienna.

Smash Rail Center British-based American Marauders smashed at the rail center of Creil, 30 miles north of Paris, the ninth blow of the month against transportation points behind that section of the anti-invasion front. No Marauders were lost, but two fighters did not return.

U. S. and British airmen also bombed air fields in northern France and Holland yesterday afternoon.

Targets in Vienna were not immediately identified but it was believed they included rail facilities and port installations on the Danube.

Only patrol activity was reported on the Anzio beachhead and on the Eighth Army front.

The Germans driven into the southwest corner of Cassino were protected by supporting fire from Nazi positions on high ground outside the town. Allied infantry went through a hurricane of mortar fire to engage the Germans in hand-to-hand struggles.

DELAYED TESTIMONY

The governors' opinion poll on service voting being conducted by President Roosevelt might better have occurred before congress marched up the hill and then marched back down again.

If the service voting problem—and it is a very real problem—had been approached non-politically in the first instance, Mr. Roosevelt would have called on the governors of the states for their counsel in advance.

He would have pointed out to them in a public memorandum on the subject that he was interested as commander-in-chief in ways and means of polling service voters; that it was an unprecedented situation and, therefore, needed unprecedented measures. He would have placed responsibility for the solution on the states, where responsibility for elections is placed by the Constitution. He would not have made it appear, as he plainly tried to make it appear, that he was the sole defender of the military voters' rights. He would not have let his partisans in congress precipitate a states' rights fight in his name, or had they done so without his approval, he would have proclaimed that fact, too.

As it is, congress has wasted a great deal of its time in a futile and bitter argument over a matter which it could not settle by legislation without amending the Constitution. The evidence the governors of the states will bring to bear on the issue will come too late to undo the damage which was done by letting it be handled as a partisan issue.

ONLY RUBBLE—AND GERMANS

The defense of Cassino, it appears, was not paralyzed by the tactical bombing which leveled that key point of German resistance. When the bombers had finished their job there was nothing left but rubble—and Germans. It still was a job for infantrymen.

A similar instance is described in Robert Sherrod's "Tarawa," a factual job of reporting on the action leading up to capture of that Pacific stronghold. The island, no larger than a few city blocks, was blasted by bombs and naval artillery—3,000 tons of bombs and high explosive shells. It was strafed. Everything possible was done to paralyze its defense preparatory to the actual invasion by the marines. Yet when it was all over, nearly 1,000 marines were dead or missing, and more than 2,000 were wounded.

The reporting of such artillery operations as Tarawa and Cassino is essential to public understanding of the conduct of the war. They reveal to the public the possibilities and limitations of the tactics which fighting men are depending on to win supremacy over Germany and Japan. Most important of all, they deny the easy theory of the non-military "experts" that all the militarists need to do is make the most of what they have to bring the war to a cheap and quick conclusion. The Germans and Japanese did not plan their war to be brought to a cheap quick conclusion.

DRAFT BOARDS ON THE JOB

When credit is being passed out for tireless, faithful service in the war effort, members of the nation's selective service boards should not be slighted by faint praise.

There have been times when their work was easier than at any other times, but it always has been difficult. At present, they are under extraordinary pressure. They are confronted with demands for manpower which only a few boards can satisfy from their available registrants without inducting men whose circumstances previously had barred them from induction. This is one of the most trying periods they have weathered.

The boards are not aided in the difficult decisions they are called on to make by confusing and sometimes conflicting statements from Washington. It is a tribute to their composite common sense that they continue to do their job quietly and to the best of their ability, refusing to be rushed off their feet. They have justified the large degree of autonomy granted them under the selective service law.

They bridge the gap between the demands made of them and their obligation as citizens to make selective service work successfully at the point of contact with the public. If they think sometimes they are performing a thankless chore, they always can fall back on the satisfaction of knowing they are doing something which must be done—and doing it so well that no one even has hinted after their many months of voluntary effort that there might be any better method.

THE ATLANTIC CHARTER

While Prime Minister Churchill is declaring his willingness to let critics of the Atlantic Charter in common make a test issue of it if they choose, there might properly be a showdown in the United States, too. Specifically, what is needed is an airing of the official opinion that the Atlantic Charter never has been anything more than a high-sounding document whose terms weren't meant to be taken seriously.

The Charter was a declaration of general principles on which the United States and Great Britain based their hopes for a better future for the world. It declared that no aggrandizement was sought and that there should be no territorial changes without the consent of the people governed. It asserted the right of all peoples to choose their form of government and to enjoy the privilege of sovereignty. It proclaimed the desirability of worldwide security and economic collaboration. These aims later were subscribed to in a joint declaration by the United Nations. Both then and now, they reflected the prevailing opinion of Americans. Both then and now they had powerful appeal to the ordinary human beings in all countries whose fate for generations to come is being determined in the war.

If in the United States and Great Britain, there now are those who object to any of the principles of the Atlantic Charter, they should be urged to speak up in a good, firm voice, quoting chapter and verse of their objections. As the originators of the declaration, the United States and Great Britain are its natural guardians. If they falter, they hardly can be critical of skepticism about the Atlantic Charter among their allies and foes.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, March 19.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a rather static or uneventful one with stress laid upon social, affectional, cultural or purely personal interests. Over all there may hang a vague, confused and tricky set of circumstances liable to allure, entrap or intrigue in a menacing and disturbing manner. With vigilance, discretion and reserve in friendships or other relations there may be benefits.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of intriguing and perplexing circumstances, best resolved by alert, straightforward and strategic programs, well thought out and unswervingly applied. Else there may be all sorts of treacherous, fraudulent or eccentric involvements, costly to funds, social and business standing and generally regrettable and undesirable.

A child born on this day, although having some exceptional talents and abilities bringing success yet may be endowed with peculiar ideas or urges.

For Monday, March 20.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a particularly propitious one, highly stimulating to all the ambitions and aspirations. Such impetus seems to arise from strange, extraordinary or unpredictable sources, and rises to great heights. Possibly originality, intuitive processes, peculiar leads or inspiration, enforced by intelligence, discrimination and sagacity, with concrete and practical measures, may bring great success and happiness.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to exercise their unusual talents, creative ability, originality and ingenuity, arising from profound or inspired sources, intuitions or other unique pressure to gain their cherished hopes and objectives. All faculties and forces may be under high impetus for progress, expansion, popularity, personal happiness and pleasure of far-reaching endurance.

A child born on this day may have unusual, unique and original skills or talents, assuring it high prestige, happiness and advancement in life.

The American Constitution is the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man—W. E. Gladstone (1875).

Relaxing Tension Through Practice

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE DOCTRINE of physiological relaxation as recommended by Dr. Edmund Jacobson, of Chicago, is certainly an indicated procedure for our time. Americans have always been criticized by Europeans for their tenseness. But the Europeans this time have taught us to be even more tense, at the exact present historical moment.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The Germans and the Italians and the Russians seem to have tensed up during the last decade, even the reputedly phlegmatic British. And they have increased our original tenseness. We are told to strain every sinew for the war effort, and that we should guard ourselves up and, of course, we should; but we do need periods of complete relaxation if we are to keep our health and sanity of view.

According to Dr. Jacobson, and I agree, this has to be done deliberately for most of us. Many do not relax even in sleep. The relaxation so often approved of, a game of golf or other sport, or pursuit of a hobby, or card games, or even warm baths, or massage do not really result in the muscular hypotonia and relief of residual tension which is the distinguishing mark of physiological relaxation.

Dr. Jacobson's methods are simple in appearance, although he warns that they have to be practiced to obtain the best results.

Inspection of the nervous person, and this includes most of us, reveals that he is excessively tense in his skeletal muscles. The first lesson may be to increase deliberately this tenseness. If he is frowning excessively he increases the act until he becomes acutely aware of it. Then he is instructed to discontinue the frowning—first abruptly and then slowly and progressively.

Repeated practice is given until all the over-active muscle groups have become relaxed.

The procedure follows an anatomical order: Relax the left arm muscles, the wrist, the forearm, the upper arm. Then the right arm. Then the left foot, angle foreleg and thigh. Then the abdominal muscles, the back, the shoulders, the chest muscles, the neck and the muscles of the face. The frowning muscles and those of the eyes and speech require the most detailed attention and practice because they participate the most in mental activities and strain.

"Physiological evidence has supported the view that fears and anxious mental states can be relaxed away."

It has been found that even professional instructors in physical education can not learn to relax the first time they try so for most of you it may take regular practice periods for several successive days.

Relaxation is important for refreshing sleep. And one should prepare for night by relaxing during the day. It is a mistake to suppose that the amount of sleep you have is like a savings account; that anything you take from it in the daytime reduces your amount of sleep at night. On the contrary a relaxing nap after lunch or before supper may actually prepare you for a longer sleep at night.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

THE RED CARNATION

by BURTON STEVENSON

CHAPTER TEN

With fingers that trembled a little, he carefully detached one of the petals, dropped them into an envelope, put the envelope in his pocket, and hurried from the room.

"Want to see the body?" the attendant asked.

"Not today, thanks," Tony answered, and ran down the steps to his taxi.

He was able to beat the last edition deadline and phone in an extra paragraph for his column:

Carnations White and Red.—Jack McKibben had many eccentricities, and one of them was harmless. Always he wore a white carnation in his buttonhole. Last night, at Max's place, he sat jostling that it stood for innocence. The last act of his life was too mail a note to his florists directing them to deliver a bunch of his special white carnations to your columnist at noon today, with one deep red carnation in the center. Then, apparently, he looked himself in his bedroom and shot himself through the heart. But, strangely enough, the carnation still in the buttonhole of the coat he wore when he died had changed from white to red—a queer, streaky red. It was really a white carnation which had been dipped in human blood—proof positive that this is a case, not of suicide, but of cold-blooded, premeditated murder.

It was after five o'clock when Anthony Bigelow got back to his apartment where Duffy and Garrity were waiting for him. They were seated in front of his desk on which, in the case where Clarence had placed them, was the bunch of white carnations with the single red one in the center. Also on the desk was a copy of the final edition of the Record.

"Who was the florist?" Duffy asked.

"Marriner," Tony answered, and while Duffy went to the phone, he took up the paper and looked through Garrity's story of the case. There were two or three points which were new to him. The ballistics bureau was able to state that the bullet had been fired from McKibben's pistol almost straight at a distance of only a few inches, had perforated the left auricle of the heart and passed clear through the body. McKibben had gone over backwards; death had been instantaneous. His wallet, well-filled in spite of gay evening, was in his pocket. His man had stated that, so far as he could see, nothing was missing from the apartment. An investigation was being made of his brokerage business. There were rumors that it was in bad shape.

"He's worse than bankrupt," said Duffy who had put down the phone. "He made away with a lot of his customers' securities. He was at the end of his rope, headed straight for Sing Sing. He had every reason to shoot himself."

"McKibben didn't shoot himself," Tony insisted.

"I notice you say so. You even use the words, 'cold-blooded and premeditated murder' in your column."

"I know they're banal," Tony apologized, "but I was in a hurry and I couldn't think of any others."

"Why shouldn't McKibben send

"Maybe he thought it more in keeping with my character," said Tony, smiling.

"Look here," broke in Garrity, his eyes shining, "suppose McKibben didn't send the flowers at all. Suppose they were sent by the fellow who killed him to call your attention to the bloodstained one?"

"Sounds crazy any way you put it," said Duffy. "Don't forget that the murderer, after doing all this advertising, bolted the door from the outside, to make it look like suicide. Absolutely cockeyed. However, I'll put an expert on the handwriting, just to make sure. Whichever way it is, I don't see that it gets us anywhere in particular." He got out one of his slim cigars, lighted it, and blew a disgusted puff toward the ceiling.

"The important thing is to find that dame who went up to McKibben's apartment with him and make her tell us what happened after they got there. What was she doing while McKibben was writing the letter?"

"I have it!" cried Garrity. "While he was writing the letter, she realized where she was and what she was up against, and when he went out to the mail chute to drop the letter in, she found his pistol and prepared to defend her honor."

Duffy was regarding Garrity with an indulgent smile.

"Well, what's the matter with that?" the reporter demanded.

WINONA

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gamble were hosts to 45 friends and relatives Wednesday evening honoring Mrs. Gamble's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Hall.

The evening was spent socially and with games in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Satterthwaite.

A lunch was served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. O. F. Sidwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall, who have sold their home, are moving to Damascus.

Among those who visited the Friends Boarding school at Barnesville and attended committees Tuesday were Mrs. Mabel Satterthwaite, Mrs. A. G. Oliphant, Mrs. Roscoe Stanley, Wilson Steer and Mrs. Edgar McGrew.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Cope and sons were Sunday visitors of Mrs. Nell Bricker, north of Salem.

Gun Club Names Officers

Monday evening members of the Winona Gun club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Johnson for their annual meeting.

An election resulted in the reelection of the following officers: President, Leland Johnson; vice-president, Francis Hall; treasurer, Raymond Brandt; secretary, Lowell Wilhemy.

Gray Kealey was taken in as a new member. It was voted that the membership of the members now serving in the armed forces should be retained for the duration.

Mrs. Johnson served a lunch.

The Winona Jolly Bunch first aid class met Friday evening at the Brick school house with a good attendance. The leaders are Mrs. John Stewart and Mrs. Ray Copeck.

Concludes Visit

Mrs. Leslie Wilhemy returned home Monday after a week's visit with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee, Jr., in Youngstown.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hall arrived at the Albert Gamble home Tuesday after a visit with relatives at Adena. Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hall sold their farm home west of town to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Sidwell and are leaving in Damascus.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cooper and children Leo, Betty and Charles were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Scott at Delroy. Jasper Scott returned home with the Coopers for a visit.

Esther, Kathryn and Erna Sidwell of Columbiana were Tuesday visitors of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Sidwell.

Mrs. Sina Megrahl spent Tuesday and Wednesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Megrahl, Salem, and the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hanna, north of Salem.

In Capping Exercises

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Johnson recently attended the capping exercises for the student nurses at South Side hospital, Youngstown. Their daughter, Shirley, was a member of the class.

Richard Johnson, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Johnson, who has been ill, is much improved.

Carl Shive and Miss Edna Hiverman of Leontonia were Wednesday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. James Rhodes.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hall and children of near East Liverpool were recent visitors in the Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McGrew home.

The heavily bomber German city of Magdeburg was leveled in the Thirty Years War and took nearly three centuries to rebuild.

Field Day For Phonies

War Brings Fake Heroes And Racketeers To Prey On Public

BY ARLENE WOLF

AP Features Writer

WORLD war II is a field day for phonies.

While America's servicemen battle on the war fronts, the FBI and other agencies are fighting the phony war on the home front. They're tracking down an ever-increasing number of war frauds—from phony war heroes to organized rackets which fleece servicemen and their relatives.

Playing upon the emotions of servicemen's families is one of the most ghastly rackets. Casualty lists are good hunting grounds for fiends like one in New York who wrote dunning letters to dead servicemen, and counted on the bereaved families' sense of obligation to pay up. Others obtained juicy fees for "oil" paintings of men killed in action, then refused to return original photographs until families paid exorbitant prices for ordinary enlarged color photographs.

Thousands Bilked

Fund-raising phonies have milked the public of thousands of dollars. One brass outfit invited the public to pay 10 cents for the privilege of signing a petition to the President that America would win the war. War orphans presumably were to be the beneficiaries.

Even Park Avenue debs were duped into soliciting funds for a Park Avenue canteen, until authorities found the overhead was unusually large, and the promoter was convicted for soliciting funds without a license.

Frauds follow the trend of the times closely. A. E. Backman, director of the Division of Solicitations of the National Better Business Bureau, has found.

Possibilities of air attack brought so-called air raid precaution experts who solicited work at large industrial corporations. At least one was found to be a former employee of the Japanese government.

Casualty lists inspired honor roll salesmen, who charged fancy prices for simple paper paste-ups a child could do.

War gave new impetus to the old phony gasoline tablet which supposedly produced gas when dropped into a water-filled tank. And one man was convicted for swindling three others in a scheme to make a tire-puncture proofing compound.

More To Come

Although records show an increase in fraud for war years, Mr. Backman expects an even greater increase when victory comes—particularly in security frauds.

"A new generation of security investors is being educated now through the purchase of war bonds," he says. "People who never owned a security before will be cashing in bonds and looking for investments. Returning soldiers will have musing over pay."

Campaigns have already been instituted to warn the public about post-war, as well as war-time frauds. The whole idea, says Mr. Backman, is to remember: "Before you invest, investigate."

Couple Wed In Ceremony At Damascus

The marriage of Miss Erma Irene Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray Jones of Damascus to Pfc. Clarence Lea Hoopes, son of Clarence Hoopes of R. D., Salem, took place at 8 last evening at the bride's home in Damascus. Rev. Amos N. Henry performed the simple ceremony before a candle-lit altar of palms and bouquets of gladioli, snapdragons and candy tufts.

Nuptial music was furnished by Miss Gladys Haldeman who wore pink and a corsage of yellow roses. Kenneth Phillips sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with lace panel inserts in the skirt which ended in a long train. She carried a bouquet of red roses and wore a fingertip length veil which fell from a tiara of orange blossoms. She also wore a strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Miss Eileen Hopkins of Cortland, niece of the bride, served as her attendant in a powder blue gown and carried a bouquet of red and white carnations. She also wore a blue sapphire necklace, a gift of the bride.

Glenn Hoopes, brother of the groom, was best man.

Mrs. Jones, mother of the bride, wore a blue ensemble with black accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Miss Ethel Ladd, aunt of the groom, wore navy blue and a corsage of yellow roses.

A reception was held following the ceremony for 40 guests at the home.

Both are graduates of Goshen Township High school and Mrs. Hoopes is now a teacher at the Maple Ridge school.

For the past one and a half years Pfc. Hoopes has been stationed at Gulfport, Miss. He formerly was employed by the Alliance Manufacturing Co.

Learn something about your War Bonds from this fellow!

THE BEST THING a bulldog does is HANG ON! Once he gets hold of something, it's mighty hard to make him let go!

And that's the lesson about War Bonds you can learn from him. Once you get hold of a War Bond, HANG ON TO IT for the full ten years of its life.

There are at least two very good reasons why you should do this. One is a patriotic reason . . . the other a personal reason.

You buy War Bonds because you know Uncle Sam needs money to fight this war. And you want to put some of your money into the fight. But . . . if you don't hang on to those War Bonds, your money isn't going to stay in the battle.

Another reason you buy War Bonds is because you want to set aside some money for your family's future and yours. No one knows just what's going to happen after the War. But the man with a fistful of War Bonds knows he'll have a roof over his head and 3 square meals a day no matter what happens!

War Bonds pay you back $4 for every $3 in 10 years. But, if you don't hang on to your Bonds for the full ten years, you don't get the full face value, and . . . you won't have that money coming in later on when you may need it a lot worse than you need it today.

So buy War Bonds . . . more and more War Bonds. And then keep them. You will find that War Bonds are very good things to have . . . and to hold!

Newark, 1943 State Cage Champion, Dropped From Tourney

LOSE 41-34 TO MARTINS FERRY

Toledo Woodward Drops Findlay, Can. Lehman Whips Cleveland Hgts.

(By Associated Press)
A new state high school Class A basketball champion will be crowned next weekend, March 25, from among the teams battling in regional tournaments today. Newark, last year's victor, was put out of the running last night by Martins Ferry, 41-34.

Last year Newark eliminated Martins Ferry in the semi-finals at Columbus. Martins Ferry trailed at half-time last night, 22-18, and on the first play opening the third period the Newark laid took the ball and scored. But from that time until the final whistle they were able to make only one more field goal, while the Purple Riders from the riverfront kept inching along until, at the end of the third period, they led 31 to 28.

The last period was a repetition of the third. On the first play Newark sunk a field goal. It was their last of the game. Big Alex Groza and Gene Joseph, center and forward, respectively, for Martins Ferry, accounted for 25 of their team's points.

Both teams had been undefeated. Newark having won 25 games and Martins Ferry 24.

Newark was not the only unbeaten team to go by the boards last night. Undefeated Findlay was downed by Toledo Woodward, 46-38, in the Bowling Green Class A regional.

Timken Beats Cleveland
Thus, Martins Ferry, with 24 victories before tournament play began, and Cincinnati St. Xavier, with 20, remain the only unbeaten teams in the tournament today. Xavier meets Hamilton in the Dayton play-offs this afternoon.

In last night's other games, Mansfield defeated Van Wert, 39-28, at Bowling Green, and Akron North walloped Coshocton, 64-49, at Denison. Both were Class A games.

At Youngstown, in the Class A regional, Canton Timken defeated Cleveland Heights, 42-41, and Canton Lehman put Massillon out of the running, 46-31.

In the only Class B competition of the evening at Bowling Green, Lima St. John's defeated Woodville, 45-23, and Massillon took the measure of Whitehouse, 39 to 25. While most dopesters had expected neither Newark or Martins Ferry to be one of the semi-finalists at Columbus next weekend, the Martins Ferrians have a stiff opponent for tonight.

Akron North, in disposing of a better-than-average Coshocton outfit, 64-49, uncovered a left-handed scoring wizard in Jimmy Lane. He dropped 14 field goals in from the corners, and totaled 30 points.

Fourteen games remain to be played this afternoon and tonight before the four Class A and four Class B representatives to the state finals have been selected. Tournament play today:

(Each team's won and lost averages prior to tournament play listed in brackets)
At Denison
Martins Ferry (24-0) vs Akron North (16-2).
At Bowling Green
Mansfield (19-4) vs Toledo Woodward (16-2).
At Youngstown
Canton Timken (20-2) vs Canton Lehman (16-4).
At Dayton
Cincinnati St. Xavier (20-0) vs Hamilton (13-6).
Marietta (13-8) vs Middletown (20-1).

CLASS B
At Youngstown

CHISOX WILL OFFER FIGHT FOR PENNANT

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, March 18.—The Chicago White Sox, not the Champion New York Yankees, will be the club to beat this year for the American league pennant in the opinion of Lou Boudreau, manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Lea went out on the limb yesterday with his prediction at Lafayette, Ind., where the Indians have pitched their spring camp. "The White Sox," he asserted, "have lost fewer important men than any other club and they have added a number of players who figure to give them better balance than they had last year when they finished fourth."

As for the Yankees, Boudreau declared, "You can't lose fellows like Charley Keller, Bill Johnson, Bill Dickey, Joe Gordon and Spud Chandler and still win a pennant, even in a weakened league." He thinks his own Indians will again finish in the first division and for a dark horse contender, picked the Boston Red Sox.

As if to bear out Boudreau's prediction, White Sox Manager Jimmy Dykes was reported jubilant at the Sox training camp at French Lick, Ind., that the Sox will have the services of Hal Trosky, former hard-hitting Cleveland first baseman, who has been re-classified 4-F.

OPPORTUNITIES
Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News classified advertising columns.

The Coy squad won the Adrian Ladies' league championship by a single game as the league schedule closed last night on the Bowling Center alleys.

Coy won three from Finneys while Halds were taking only two from Firestones, and Halds had to be content with second place.

Endres-Gross had a chance to tie for second place but lost all three of its final games to finish in third place. Salem Concrete and Eagles tied for fourth.

Iceman Dill Eyes Major Baseball Job

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Features Sports Editor
NEW YORK—Robert Edward Dill, peppery, rough and confident defenseman of the New York Rangers in the National Hockey league, is a fellow to watch.

He's aiming for a big league baseball berth—and he's got plenty on the ball. Last summer, Bob was the centerfielder for the Minneapolis Millers in the American association.

When the Millers start spring training, Dill will be on hand for his fourth season in the diamond sport. But, he makes no bones of the fact that he expects to go up to the majors—"probably this year."

"I got a letter from Mike Kelly," the owner of the Minneapolis club, says Bob, "and he told me that if I can get off to a good start this season, there are two or three major league clubs interested in giving me a trial. (Washington has a working agreement with the Millers.)"

"I can brush up a bit on my hitting, I think I can make it. If I don't, it won't be from not trying," smiles Dill.

"Nobody has ever accused Bob of 'not trying'." As a matter of fact, there hasn't been a young athlete around in years with the fire and out-to-win spirit of the Minnesotan.

Sometimes his aggressiveness gets him in trouble. But that doesn't stop him.

"I never do anything rough deliberately," assures Bob. "I play to score whether it is carrying the puck down the ice, or running bases. You can't buy aggressiveness, but you have to have it to win."

If he had to choose between baseball and hockey, the American-born puck chaser would be in a tough spot, for he loves both.

"I'll take that corner when I come to it," says Bob. "I'm in the majors now in hockey, and I still have to make it in baseball, but I will."

Bob has a medical discharge from the Coast Guard. He served two years. He played hockey out of Minnesota before Eddie Shore spotted him. It was while he was playing for Shore's Buffalo club that the Rangers grabbed Dill.

He played baseball for Gretin High, a Catholic military school in St. Paul, and in 1935 went to California for the sectional finals in the Junior American Legion tournament.

Played In Northern Loop
The 180-pound youth was with Fargo of the Northern league for two seasons, playing the outfield. He bats and throws left handed. While with Fargo he hit .332 and .318.

Last year Bob's batting average fell to .264 but he blames it on a new stance. He thinks he has perfected it now, thanks to Dick Porter, who helped him when they played for the Curtis Bay Coast Guard team.

With the baseball clubs after men who are going to be around awhile, the 23-year-old Dill should fit in several places. His peppery spirit should be a big asset to any club, and he has the color of a Ty Cobb, which should help the box office as well.

Just keep an eye on the box scores for Dill. He'll be there.

Canton Teams Clash Tonight In Regional Final At South

Amid an almost circus-like atmosphere that kept nearly 2000 fans constantly on their feet, Canton's Timken and Lehman emerged victorious over their respective rivals—Cleveland Heights and Massillon—last night at Youngstown's South High field house.

This set the stage for a "dream final" tonight, which pits the two county entries against each other for the third time this season in a battle to decide which squad will win the right to represent this region in the state finals at Columbus next week.

Timken nosed out Cleveland 42-41 in the thriller of the show last night, a heartbreaker for Cleveland fans in which the Tigers' Bill Velotta let one fly from the center of the floor as the final horn sounded to end the game with a swishing set shot that found Heights just one point shy. In the other game Lehman had an easier time for three quarters but Massillon pushed them hard in the final and with two minutes to go trailed 40-39. The Polar Bears scored in the last seconds to win 45-39.

South's rousing field house presented a colorful picture—a picture in which the almost 2000 cheering basketball lovers played in active part. By far the most potent—and the loudest—demonstrations came from the Canton Lehman cheering section. Lehman was accompanied by nearly 500 high school students and an equally loyal but more quiet group of adult followers.

Basketball fans will have their last opportunity to witness tournament play tonight, when both Class A and Class B finalists meet on the South floor. In the opener Class B's Akron Ellet meets underdog Bellaire St. John's to settle the question of this region's B entry at Columbus next week. The first game gets underway at 8 p. m. and is followed by the Lehman-Timken contest.

In Lehman, Timken finds its toughest foe, and the statement is equally true the other way. The two schools have already clashed twice this season, Lehman losing the first 45-40 and winning the second—just three weeks ago—47 to 38.

Timken Hits Better Record
In regular season's play Timken rates the edge, having won 16 of 18 starts. Their only losses came in games with New Philadelphia and Lehman. The Polar Bears boast one of Lehman's best seasonal records, winning 15 of 18 contests—their losses suffered to Akron Ellet, Massillon and Timken. Tournament time has been equally beneficial for both teams, as they have chalked up four wins over opponents of almost even powers.

Akron Ellet enters the B game favored to win by virtue of a height advantage, coupled with an especially impressive record over Class A schools and a win over highly-touted Columbiana Thursday night. Bellaire's record, though just as impressive in wins and losses, doesn't speak for the Irish as well as the Ellet list of wins.

All in all, tournament fans can expect a terrific show tonight and tournament director, Dave Williams, of South High school, anticipates one of the largest attendances in years.

BEAU JACK WHIPS DAVIS IN GARDEN

NEW YORK, March 18.—He doesn't hold a championship, this bounding Beau Jack of Augusta, Ga., but he's the No. 1 gate attraction in today's depleted list of ranks.

Last night, 19,933 fans paid $132,823 to watch him hand Al Davis, the Brooklyn bomber, one of the most artistic lacerations anyone has ever taken over the 10-round route.

That gate, over which Promoter Mike Jacobs and the Red Cross smiled broadly, boosted the Beau's 12-month garden gate to $947,477, an average of $78,956. No one has made the garden tunnels click like that since heavyweight champion, Joe Louis donned his khaki uniform.

SUPPLEMENTAL GAS REQUESTS SCANNED

CLEVELAND, March 18.—Office of Price administration officials of the Cleveland district reported today that local rationing boards are under newly-issued orders to tighten restrictions on the issuance of supplemental gasoline allowances.

They termed the action part of a drive against "black market" operations.

In a joint statement William A. Maynard, district rationing executive, and Enforcement Attorney Anthony R. Fioretti said:

"Local boards have been constantly instructed to scrutinize carefully all applications for supplemental mileage. If there has been over-issuance of B and C rations, the blame must be placed on the motorists who have mis-represented their needs."

ing research work in these fields have been forced to use very young men."

About 22,000,000 synthetic rubber tires will be built for passenger cars this year, Dewey predicted, instead of the 30,000,000 previously estimated to be necessary to replace the worn rubber on civilian automobiles.

Dewey emphasized the passenger tire shortage is a matter of materials rather than manpower. Women workers, he said, can fabricate the lighter tires for private automobiles, but production is being deliberately held down to 1,000,000 a month for the first half of this year to divert materials to heavier military and truck and bus tires.

Manpower troubles which will be aggravated by tighter draft rules, Dewey said, are largely in synthetic rubber laboratories, the chemical operations of new plants, and fabrication of heavier tires.

Implied in the report was criticism of the War Production board for slowness in bringing high-technology rayon cord production up to the pace of synthetic rubber manufacture.

Urges Racial Study
ALBANY, N. Y., March 18.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey proposed today creation of a temporary state commission to make a full study of racial and religious discrimination, which he said the war had developed "in many ugly forms".

Solomons-Based Planes Score In Rabaul Raids

ADMIRAL HALSEY'S ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOLOMONS, March 18.—Reduction of Rabaul, one of Japan's most important supply bases, to an impotent enemy outpost deserted of ships and planes, is credited to the four-month offensive of Allied aircraft flying from points in the Solomon Islands.

Planes of all categories, operating under Vice Admiral Aubrey W. Fitch, have eliminated enemy air resistance by destroying 891 Japanese war birds during the 16 weeks ending March 10. Of the total, 816 were shot down in combat in addition to 198 listed as probables.

Allied plane losses during the same period and over the same area amounted to less than 200.

Solomon-based airmen also struck enemy shipping at Rabaul during the same period, accounting for 25 Japanese ships and 95 barges destroyed or sunk. They left 16 ships and 50 barges burning, 53 ships and 101 barges damaged and 19 ships and 189 barges strafed.

Hobby May Pay Off
RIVINGTON, Wyo. — A 10-year hobby of Otto Furst of Scottsbluff, Neb., seems to be about to pay dividends. For 10 years, Furst has been searching for oil in his spare time. Recently he discovered a heavy deposit of oil south of Gering. The drill struck saturated shale at 3,800 feet and is expected to have commercial prospects when drilling reaches below the Greenhorn strata.

Ruling Reversed In Ceiling Price Case

LISBON, March 18.—The judgment of the East Liverpool municipal court was reversed in an opinion handed down by Judge Joel H. Sharp in common pleas court Friday afternoon in an action in which an electric refrigerator was sold above the ceiling price.

The case resulted from the sale of a refrigerator by Basil Mangano, doing business as the Central Service garage, to Mrs. Carl Wilson of East Liverpool last June 9 for a consideration of $200. Mrs. Wilson made a $75 down-payment and a few days after delivery discovered that the ceiling price for such a unit was $94.46.

She then tendered the difference, plus delivery charges, and demanded surrender of the chattel mortgage, which was refused, and Mangano offered to return the money and asked return of the refrigerator, which proposition was refused by Mrs. Wilson.

The municipal court decision was in favor of the plaintiff, giving him the right to the property upon payment to the defendant of the money paid and the surrender of the mortgage and note.

The matter was then appealed to the common pleas court, and Judge Sharp, in a 29-page opinion, reversed the lower court with a finding that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover the refrigerator but that he is entitled to receive the balance remaining between the down-payment and the ceiling price—which relief was not asked in this case.

Judge Sharp further ruled that Mrs. Wilson is not entitled to $100 damages for the plaintiff's malicious act and for her property damage, as there was no evidence offered showing any damage to defendant's property.

The daring operation included in its cast of characters a former movie star and a comic-strip hero model.

Jackie Coogan, one-time juvenile screen star who now pilots a transport glider, was the first man to alight when the air-borne forces landed silently behind Japanese lines. He directed landing operations until a higher officer arrived.

Col. Philip G. Cochran, Erie, Pa., reportedly the real-life model of the comic-strip hero, "Flip Corkin," commanded the special forces until which landed the Allied forces and then brought in supplies and reinforcements.

Within 24 hours after the landing, an emergency landing strip had been slashed out of the Burma jungle shortly afterward a second strip was completed a few miles south.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

Marie of Rumania, discovered that when she did her utmost to get him back on his throne during his long exile prior to 1935. She knew that if he would take the initiative he could regain his crown.

Well, the Greek political parties, including the Royalists, have asked King George not to return to Greece until after they have had a plebiscite to decide what government they want. Unless he acquires that white charger complex, his chances are small.

The plight of young King Peter of Yugoslavia is equally serious. When I was in that country not long before the war, the people were happy in the belief that their school-boy heir to the throne had the makings of a great king—and he did. But since the war he has encountered influences which have weakened his standing not only at home, but also abroad. As it is, the tendency in Yugoslavia is towards abolishment of the monarchy. Communism is showing much strength there.

Different circumstances but similar ideas are sweeping Bulgaria and Rumania. It's notable that all four countries were under dictatorial rule. The people are fed up with dictatorships and are seeking an out.

When Texas was annexed by the U. S. it retained the right to divide itself into five states.
